Sage Advice from the Professionals

Here are a few tips from the people “in the trade” whose business it is to attend wine shows.

PREPARE AHEAD

This refers not only to making sure that you have alternate transportation available at the end of the evening, but also that you are not beginning your evening on an empty stomach. Though experts might say your senses are heightened when you are hungry, after a long day some food will help keep your energy level up and temper the effects of consuming alcohol. Remember, the Wine Festival focuses on the wines (pours are less than 1oz).

Food is not available on the tasting floor, however, the RBC Convention Centre Winnipeg operates a Bistro should you wish to enjoy some repast during the Festival.

PLAN YOUR ATTACK

As you enter the show, pick up your tasting glass and program and take a few minutes to survey the room and organize your route. Given there will be a huge number of wines to sample and limited time, it is extremely useful to decide where you want to go first. It may be sparkling wines first and dessert wines at the end. Or perhaps specific grape varieties such as sauvignon blanc or shiraz might be the target before moving on to other things. Whatever the plan, note the wines you have tasted, particularly the ones you like in case you want to purchase them at the on-site Liquor Mart.

SPITTING IS OK

In fact spitting the wine after tasting is an essential part of the process for those who wish to maintain any objectivity during the course of the evening. Look for buckets or strategically placed receptacles into which, like the pros, you can spit the wine after swishing it around in your mouth. Learn from the winery representatives; each winery have experts behind their table. Feel free to ask questions or discuss your views about the wines that you taste.

BE COURTEOUS TO OTHER TASTERS

The tasting area is likely to be quite crowded, especially around the most popular wines. Once your sample has been poured for you, and if you are not engaged in discussion with those pouring, let someone else in to try the wine. This will ease both potential congestion and irritability.

GO WITH YOUR PERSONAL PREFERENCES

After all is said and done you are the only expert when it comes to pleasing your palate. The best way to learn more about your own likes and dislikes is to try different wines and trust your own judgement. The best thing about a wine show is that it presents an ideal opportunity to try as many different wines as possible in a relatively short time.

DISCOVER THE WINES FROM SPAIN

"Great wine requires a mad man to grow the vine, a wise man to watch over it, a lucid poet to make it, and a lover to drink it."

Salvador Dalí

With more land under vine than anywhere else in the world, Spain has vineyards everywhere; in plains, on mountain sides, in river valleys, on the coast and inland. As such, the variety of styles produced by its different vineyards is extraordinary.

Spanish red wines can also be labeled according to aging: Crianza wines are aged for at least two years (six months in barrel); Reserva wines are aged at least three years (one year in barrel); and Gran Reserva wines must be aged at least five years (including 18 months in barrel and at least 36 months in bottle).

Exploring Spanish wine takes you through seven distinct climatic zones, each one with microclimates that present its own challenges and rewards for winegrowing and production.

SPANISH WINES

Spain has the world´s largest vineyard acreage, and the excitement, attention and demand surrounding Wines from Spain today has been the fruit of more than 3,000 years of experience.

From long established and respected wine growing regions to exciting new ones, from indigenous grape varieties to foreign ones and from traditional to modern wine making techniques, Spanish wines offer something for everyone. Spain specializes in exceptional to everyday wine and wines for ageing.

Spain is surrounded by water on three sides: the cold Atlantic in the north and west and the warmth of the sea along the Mediterranean coast. Spain´s physical geography is dominated by numerous mountain chains and their critically important foothills as well as significant rivers and their tributaries. These physical characteristics, combined with the climatic influences of the seas, and winds from all four directions, provide one of the broadest varieties of grape growing environments in the world, from gently rolling hills to spectacular, terraced vineyards.

The transformation of the image and quality of Spanish wines during the last quarter of the 20th century has been truly remarkable.

In particular, recent years have witnessed the emergence of a new generation of Master Winemakers who have achieved the blending balance of tradition and quality with innovation, giving rise to unique wines of unprecedented quality, versatility and value that enjoy unprecedented success worldwide.

As the New York Times so aptly put it, Spain is the "source of some of the most exciting, original and sought-after wines in the world".

SPANISH WINE REGIONS

Wines from Spain

GREEN SPAIN

The cool, wet climate of Green Spain stretches along the Atlantic coast of Northern Spain, from Galicia to the Pyrenees. Early ripening grapes, such as Albariño, the white star of Rías Baixas, and Godello in Valdeorras are coaxed into aromatic white wines. Further from the coast, however, the red grape Mencía is ascending in Ribeira Sacra and Bierzo. The Txacoli DOs in Basque Country produce tangy, tart and spritzy wines that pair perfectly with seafood.

DUERO RIVER VALLEY

Also known as Castilla y León, this region of northwestern Spain is the largest autonomous community in the country and the site of more than 60% of the country´s heritage sites. The Duero River nurtures some of Spain´s most storied wine regions. The great Spanish red grape, Tempranillo, reigns supreme in Toro and Ribera del Duero, where it is known as Tinto Fino, while Verdejo produces crisp white wines in Rueda.

EBRO RIVER VALLEY

The mountain range of the Sierra de Cantabria shelters some of Spain´s most important vineyards, including those in Rioja and Navarra. Tempranillo is king in Rioja, Spain´s most famous wine region, while Garnacha prospers in hotter, drier areas such as Cariñena. Navarra is home to delightful rosados and amazing value wines.

THE MESETA

South of the Duero River, the Meseta is the high central plateau of Spain and home to two thirds of Spain´s vineyards. It is also home to eight Vinos de Pago. Airén is the most widely planted grape, particularly in La Mancha and Valdepeñas, producing crisp, dry white wines.

SPANISH WINE REGIONS

Wines from Spain

THE MEDITERRANEAN COAST

Spanning the east coast of Spain, from France to Andalucía, the Mediterranean Coast encompasses a wide range of growing conditions and wine styles. Penedés is the home of Cava, Spain´s sparkling gem, while Priorato is producing superb red blends from Garnacha, Cariñena and international varietals. Alella produces aromatic and expressive whites made from Xarel-lo (also a main component of Cava), while Jumilla crafts rich red wines from Garnacha and Monastrell.

ANDALUCÍA

The hottest and southernmost area of Spain, Andalucía is ideal for the production of fortified and dessert wines. Most famously, Andalucía is home to Sherry, the fortified wine made in Jerez-Manzanilla that is so much more than the sherry your grandmother sipped. Based on the Palomino grape, Sherry is fortified after fermentation, so begins life as a dry wine. The many styles of Sherry include the pale, light Fino; medium-dry Amontillado, rich, dark, dry Oloroso, and PX, a dark, sweet wine made from the Pedro Ximénez grape.

This region is also starting to produce delicious table wines which are becoming very popular. Some of these modern wineries can be found at over 750m altitude produce different young red wines from Romé, Cabernet Sauvignon, Merlot, Syrah, Petit Verdot and Tempranillo and white wine varieties include Chardonnay, Macabeo, Colombard and Sauvignon Blanc.

THE ISLANDS

The Balearic Islands, east of Valencia in the Mediterranean Sea, and the Canary Islands off the coast of Africa in the Atlantic Ocean are perhaps better known as vacation destination than for winemaking. However, the Balearic Islands produce a relatively small amount of wine, primarily consumed by residents and tourists, while the Canary Islands remain phylloxera-free, so there are grapes there that may exist nowhere else in the world.

SPANISH RECIPES

GAZPACHO

A very simple and refreshing cold dish full of flavour. Makes a great starter anytime of the year but is especially good in the summer when vegetables are at their peak. Serve in a bowl with the option of some topping or a thinner version could be served in a glass.

Ingredients (approx.) for 4-6 people

- 6 red ripe
- 1 small green pepper
- ½ mild onion
- ½ English cucumber (optional)
- 2 or more garlic cloves
- 1 slice of bread
- 7 tablespoons of Spanish Virgin Olive Oil
- 2 tablespoons of Sherry Vinegar
- 3 tablespoons water
- Salt to taste

Method:

In a blender jar place the tomatoes, green pepper, cucumber, onion, garlic, bread, oil, vinegar and salt and process to reach a creamy consistency. Pass through a sieve and keep in the refrigerator. Serve very cold in bowls. It can be prepared ahead of time. If you prefer a thinner gazpacho, add water and adjust the seasonings.

Toppings:

If you want to add some crunch to your gazpacho, place diced cucumber, green pepper, red pepper, onions, hard-boiled egg, croutons in separate small or divided dishes to pass around for a choice of toppings.

TORTILLA DE PATATA (SPANISH POTATO OMELETTE)

This is a very traditional and simple "comfort food" at its best. A staple is a Spanish home loved by everyone. It is perfect as a meal served with a green or tomato salad but also great as a tapa when cut in bite size squares and served with toothpicks. This is also a great dish to take along for a picnic. Delicious both, cold or warm.

Ingredients:

- ½ cup regular (cooking) Spanish olive oil
- 5 medium potatoes, preferable baking potatoes, peeled, sliced thinly and slightly salted
- ½ small to medium onion chopped
- 5 eggs
- Salt

This dish is very forgiving with the proportions.

In a skillet, heat the olive oil and add the potato slices. Cook, turning occasionally over medium heat for a few minutes, add the onion and cook until the potatoes are tender. Drain into a colander, leaving about 3 tablespoons of oil in the skillet.

Meanwhile, in a large bowl, whisk the eggs with a pinch of salt. Add the cooked potatoes, and stir to coat with the egg. Add the potato mixture to the very hot oil in the skillet, spreading them evenly to completely cover the base of the skillet and immediately lower the heat and continue to cook, shaking the pan to avoid sticking to the bottom, until mixture is half set.

Remove from heat and cover the skillet with an inverted plate, then carefully, flip the omelette onto the plate. Add 1 tablespoon of oil to the pan and slide the omelette back into the skillet on its uncooked side. Cook until completely set in a lower setting being careful not to scorch it. Serve in wedges for a meal or cut it into squares to serve as a tapa.
